

Karen Jackson Design is a friendly, experienced design studio based in Penryn (Falmouth), Cornwall, specialising in website design and creative design for print. Established for more than 25 years, the team is known for outstanding customer service and for delivering creative, cost-effective solutions that help organisations communicate clearly and look professional across every touchpoint.

Their services span website design, branding and logo design, and a wide range of printed and display materials — including brochures, leaflets, advertising, signs, exhibitions and more. A consistent theme in their approach is listening carefully first, then translating ideas into practical, attractive designs that work in the real world.

Karen Jackson Design has also supported Children of the Dump through the design and development of the charity's website, helping present the charity's mission clearly and accessibly — from explaining the work in Manila to encouraging supporters to sponsor a child and get involved.

Beyond the website itself, Karen Jackson Design has given — and continues to give — invaluable ongoing help and advice to the charity: sharing design guidance, offering thoughtful feedback, and helping ensure communications remain clear, consistent, and supporter-friendly as the charity grows. This steady, behind-the-scenes support strengthens how Children of the Dump tells its story, runs appeals, and thanks supporters — making it easier for more people to understand the impact of the work and to take action.
